THE DEAD SENATOR

How the News is Received in Atlanta.

ARRANGEMENTS AND DETAILS.

Opinions of the Press and Distinguished Persons.

Never in the history of Georgia has the expression of grief for the death of any of her sons, been so general as it is for the dead statesman on Peachtree. The display of mourning colors is so general that it is impes sible to find a quarter of the city in which the alternate black and white do not speak the feeling of the people. The intersection of Marietta and Decatur streets, by Whitehall and Peachtree, forming a cross extending its arms to the four points of the city, were laden with the fluttering crape and linen, while the other streets depended like streamer from the main arteries. At the workshops the men stood in groops discussing incidents in the life that was gone, and especially his bold and defiant utterances of 1868, which stamped him as a born leader of men. On Whitehall street, at Motes's gallery, a large, pen sketch of Mr. Hill was exhibited, surrounded by black fringe. It was surrounded during the entire day by alargegroup, who wouldscan the features closely, and depart saying: "Poor features closely, and depart saying: "Poor Ben;" "He was one man without fear;" "True there is none left like him." As they would turn away their places would be taken by others, and thus from early morn till closing day eulogy succeeded eulogy, so that the at-tempt to sketch it would be wearisome repe-tition.

The first announcement of Mr. Hill's death in the city brought to light a curious incident. On the night before it was supposed that Mr. Hill would imager on until perhaps Thursday evening, and no more than the usual interest was felt in the result. By midnight, however, the symptoms became rapidly worse, and the conviction was forced upon his attendants that his eyes would never again behold the light. Toward three o'clock a reporter of Tae Constitution. Dr. Ridley, with trenulous voice, said: 'I am afraid the crisis has come; come back in an hour and you will probably know the whole that is to be known.' Within an hour the reporter was back, and joined in the vigil until at 6:15 the great luminous eyes looked out, and beholding his family stanting around his bed, the room lit up by the first rays of the rising sun, they closed only to be opened again on that day when eternity shall have ushered in Just then a prominent merchant, who was passing somewhat earlier than usual, stepped in and was requested to find a barber and wand him up at once. "Is Mr. Hill dead?" quickly asked the bar-

"Yes,"
"'I just knowed it. About an hour ago I woke up and I said to my wife, 'Mr. Hill is dead.' She says, 'How do you know?' I says, 'I just dreamed it; and that a fat, smooth-faced man came and told me to go out to Mr. Hill's and shave him; and Mr. Stewart you are just the man I saw in my dream.'"

Andrew Stewart, then, was the first man beside the family and the reporter fo learn of the sad news, and the barber Bob was the third. People began rapidly to appear upon the streets, and as each new face appeared the first words heard were: "Hill's dead." One business man on Marietta street was so engrossed with the subject that he stood talking with the passers by until 9 o'clock before it occurred to him to take down his shutters and open his place of business. The governor. and open his place of business. The governor, the mayor, the authorities of the chamber of commerce and other bodies at once set to work to have the proper marks of respect

The groups assembled in the corridors of the Markham and at the Kimball discussed the event in low tones, all feeling that a great calanity had fallen upon the state and the nation. Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, whose personal relations with Mr. Hill had always been very close and intimate, was the center of one group. Said he: "Now that Mr. Hill is dead I can bear testimony to one thing—that throughout his life he was an honest, sincere Christian. He was a Methodist by conviction as well as by early training. As a boy he was handsome, moral and conscientious. As a man he was firm in the faith. IN THE HOTEL CORRIDORS tious. As a man he was firm in the faith. If at any time he gave way to temptation it was one of those aberrations into which the best of men may fall; but he at once fell back to the moorings of his imbred faith. In all his political changes, criticise them as we will, he was animated by one motive—patriotism. The love Ben Hill had for his country was idolatry. Never did a son of the Alps cling with more ardor to his rugged hillside than did Ben Hill to Georgia and the union." This sentiment was heartily seconded by all who were present. As a man he was firm in the faith.

ests from Columbus, Americus, Madison, Cartersyille, Savannah, Macon, Augusta, every corner of the state had some incident to tell of "our Ben." One gentleman from Americus interrupted and said: "You people of the large cities cannot estimate Hil as do we of the smaller towns. In your large cities we of the smaller towns. In your large cities directly after the war, there was some form of government. While you had negroes to contend with, you had a goodly body of white men to help you hold your own. Yo among your business men a large proportion of northern men, who, notwithstanding their radicalism, had business interests to conserve. Through their influence with the follows authorities, the cities had federal authorities, the cities had some measure of protection, of which the lesser towns were denied. Take as an example, Americus. Not a family in our town but had given its flowers to the army of the dead coniven its flowers to the army of the dead congiven its flowers to the army of the dead confederacy. Our old men were broken in fortune, broken in spirit, and without hope for the future. Those of middle life upon whom we should have leaned were either dead in battle or fearful of their own fate. Our women—the mothers, the wives, the sisters, the swaphearts of as brave a people as ever drew sweethearts of as brave a people as ever drew sword for liberty, were subjected to the in-sults of the black mob and the more unprin-cipled carpet-baggers from the north. Our young men, just merging on manhood, had all the spirit of the men of 461, but they were and the spirit of the men of '6f, but they were leaderless—there was no voice to exclaim this is the way.' In this emergency Hill was a great man, and his death is a loss to the nation, to his state and to his city. It will be announced to speak in Americus. He came and had among his auditors Furlow and Cutts and Happenk and Vapung Allyn Fort and such official measure. and had among his auditors Furlow and Cutts and Hancock and Young Allen Fort and such men. From the eloquence of that night Americus girded her loins and resolved to be free. Defeat would only strengthen her for the next onslaught, and to this day Americus is free. The spark thus kindled spread to every section of the state. Wherever Mr. Hill spoke the people were reminded of the glory of their fathers, and the spirit called forth was nconquerable. In the slight of Bullock in 872 Ben Hill 3cored the great triumph of his The Bar, the Citizens, the Young Men's Library, the

"A more magnanimous man than Hill as he joined in the comment on the all-absorbing topic. "It was my privilege to know

"Give us an incident."
"During the Douglas campaign, Mr. Hill and Mr. Stephens were in Coventry, as the saying is—hostile messages having passed between them. A meeting was called in Atlanta, and them. A meeting was called in Atlanta, and on the stage were Dougias, and Stephens and Hill. I was sitting with Hill. Mr. Stephens, in his speech grew so eloquent in his praise of the union, that Mr. Hill bent over to me and said: 'I care nothing for Aleck, but oh, how I love his patriotic sentiments.' But the storm grew darker and darker until at last Georgia was fairly launched into secession. Mr. Hill and myself were co-operationists, and resisted to the last all efforts to drift out of the union. A meeting was called at the atheneum, which stood where Moore & Marsk's building now stands, and Hon. T. R. R. Cobb was the Ortor - Mr. Cobb declared that there would be no war—that northern men could be bought with half a do lar; that independence would not cost a life; that as a independence would not cost a life; that as a result of it Atlanta in ten years would be enveloped in clouds of smoke sent up by hundreds of factories, and a bundred thousand dreds of factories, and a bundred thousand people would walk her streets. The next night Mr. Hill was to speak; he was my guest. I told him the gist of Cobb's speech, and suggested to him that as the democrats had dragged the country into war, it would be a companying the country into war, it would be hoove the co-operationists and whigs to so act that when the struggle came the hoove - the co-operationists and whigs to so act that when the arruggle came the blame should rest upon them. In this Mr. Hill agreed. He spoke, and in his speech he predicted that not only would there be a war, but it would be a "long and bloody war." The war came, and when it came it found Mr. Hill the uniform upholder of Mr. Davis and the men in the field. I was attached to General Forest's staff, and from Oxford, Mississippi, at General Forest's request, I wrote Mr. Hill, soliciting his co-operation in certain changes necessary to the efficiency of the army in the west. To this letter I received a reply, in which Mr. Hill said: 'Do you remember our conversation about Mr. Cobb's speech? I have never forgotten it. In my whole official career I am giving my aid to every measure calculated to strengthen the hands of our solders. It was not our work that the war came on, but now that it is upon us, the defeat will not be our work either.' And this was the key note to Mr. Hill's war policy, and fully explains what some seem that the war came on, but now that it is upon us, the defeat will not be our work either.' And this was the key note to Mr. Hill's war policy, and fully explains what some seem to think his change of base."

"What about his position after the war?"

"Well, in the general wreck we were all pretty much at sea. Mr. Hill was for uncompromising resistance; I was in favor of accepting the situation as it was offered to us. While Mr. Hill was delivering his Davis hall speech, I entered, and as I was walking down the main aisle to secure a seat, he said, without mentioning names: 'I see friends approaching

Just then a prominent merchant, who was passing somewhat earlier than usual, stepped in and was requested to find a barber and send him up at once. On reaching the centre of the city Schelpert's was just being opened, and Bob Alexander was standing listlessly at the door.

"Bob, they want you out at Mr. Hill's at once," said the mercanat.

"'Ah! ah!" said he quickly, giving his "Ah! ah!" said he quickly, giving his head that peculiar inclination whenever he made a point." When I opposed these abominations there was a chance to get rid of them, but in spite of my efforts the people have gone on and enacted them into laws and into constitutional provisions, so that nothing was left me, as a law-abiding citizen, but to accept the situation as my people, through their own law-givers, had presented it to me.

"Thus, for the second time, I was floored."
"Do you know anything of his standing at the bar?"

Yes. Some four or five years ago a big railroad case was in court here in which General A. R. Lawton was interested. He had made his argument, and, as I supposed, would go home that night. I met him in the arcade Kimball, and asked him if he was

Judge R. H. Clarke called the memthe bar to order at ten o'clock, a.m., and in the absence of Secretary King, Mr. G. A. Howell was appointed secretary pro tem. On motion, Messrs. Julius L. Mr. Hammond, chairman of the committee on resolutions, prefaced the reading of the report by a few touching remarks, ing of the report by a few touching remarks, referring to the many noble characteristics of the dead senator, and speaking in heartfelt terms of the tender relations existing between the two. The following is the report:

Benjamin Harvey Hill will live in our memory because of the dignify and blendor with which he ornamented the profession of the law.

In every court of our state, in those of the United States, district, circuit and supreme, he was known and admired for his masterly analysis, his powerful combinations and his brilliant oratory. He shown most conspicuously when, laying aside the mere arts and weapons of an arguer of causes, he exerted his grand powers in moulding or control line public opinion on the stump, or shatping it into law in the representative and senatorial halls of our country. These gave him a national reputation which belongs to all the people.

But to us he occupied a closer relation. He was a member of our bar; he was our friend and counselor.

Proud of his public career, we contemplate with selor.

Proud of his public career, we contemplate with Pleasure his private life, his illustration of the beautiful and good as citizen, husband and father. That these may be set forth fully and perpetuated upon the records of the country we adopt the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, That this meeting, by its chairman.

1. Resolved, That this meeting, by its chairman, appoint a committee of seven members of the bar of Atlanta who shall, immediately after the organization of Fulton superior court at its next term, call attention to the death of our brother and have such proceedings as are usual on such occasions.

2. Resolved, That the same committee shall, at such time as it thinks best, bring his death to the notice of the supreme court and ask appropriate action by that court.

3. Further resolved, That this bar will by its proper committees have charge of his body during each night until his burial and co-operate with the governor as to the order of the funeral.

4. Resolved, That we attend his funeral in a body and wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

A Resolved, that we acted and wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That our secretary furnish a copy of these resolutions to the family of Mr. Hill to whom we tender deepest sympathy and condolence.

6. Resolved, That the foregoing be published in the papers of our city.

J. H. LUMPKIN'S SPEECH. Mr. J. H. LUMPKIN'S SPEECH.

Mr. J. H. Lumpkin spoke as follows: "It seems to me that the younger members of the bar have an especial interest in the life and death of Benjamin H. Hill. His conand death of Benjamin II. III. Its con-temporaries are passing away, and soon they too will lie in the cold dust. It is to the young men of the state, that his example must be of use. It is to them more than to any-body else that his example and his counsel are bequeathed as a rich legacy. I can add nothing to what has been so well said of his achievements at the bar, of his greatness as a lawyer and his glory as a statesman. But as I stood last night beside the silent couch of the great dead, and looked down upon the features so cold and stiff, upon the face so wan and pinched and white, and the form so thin and wasted—and looking above his head I saw a picture, taken but above his head I saw a picture; taken but seven short months ago—a man in all the glory, and vigor, and power of full manhood, with his honors clustering thick about him, looking back again, I said: "Is this all that is left of Ben Hill? But seven months ago the greatest of statesmen; to day two feet by six. Is this the end of all?" Then I thought: "We may lay him to rest, and the sods may rattle down upon him, and in time spring flowers may wave above his head, and we will say: "Here lies Ben Hill." But it is not so in truth and fact. His memory will linger in in truth and fact. His memory will linger in our hearts through all time; his greatness and his grandness will not die; but as long as Georgia lifts her old red hills in solid sublimi-

Georgia lifts her old red hills in solid sublimity to the sky, so long will his patriotism, his love for her soil and his grand and glorious defenses of her rights linger and be enshrined in the hearts of her people.

And how beautifully has he passed away. Like some snow-drift that flashes in glittering brilliancy far up the mountain side, his life has melted away beneath that great sun which we call "Death." He has sunk from sight, but like the snow-drift, he has but passed into the soil to spring again in new and more the sod to spring again in new and mor beauteous form in the hearts of his fellow countrymen.

If may be that I am talking but sentiment; but are not the greatest things of life at last but sentiment? Are not the tears we shed at the bier but sentiment! are not love and hope and honor and patriotism and truth and relig ion itself but sentiment? And I thank God that the great man passed away, clinging to that sentiment which caused the angels to lift their voices in glad hosannas two thousand years ago around the little stable at Bethle hem, and will cause a host of voices in chorus grand to shout through all eternity to come. I thank God that he has not left us without a sentiment, that his life, great as it was in fact, great in power and glorious in achievement, has not been left unrounded by a sentiment of beauty and of truth, and I thank God that he has gone home to his Father' house, never, never more to leave it.

The committee of senators who are on their way nere to attend the funeral will arrive to-day or to-night, it is supposed. Yesterday Governor Brown telegraphed Sergeant-at-Arms Bright, but did not receive an answer, and it is presumed that the party is now on the road. Senator Pendleton is expected tomorrow at noon, with probably some members of the city council of Cincinnati and other prominent Ohioans.

The funeral will occur to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

Every carriage in the city and some from adjacent towns have been engaged. The hearse will be drawn by six gray horses, and the procession will be the largest ever seen in procession will be the largest ever seen in Atlanta, as business will be suspended to a great degree and the people will turn out en masse. The Gate City Guard will be in the procession. The armory of the Guard was beautifully draped yesterday. The Guard will be under command of Lieutenant Sparks. FEOM THE POET HAVNE.

AUGUST 14th, 1882.—My Dear Sir: I trust that you received my answer to your courteous letter of some weeks ago.

* * My present purpose in writing is to express to you and your family, in far stronger terms than before, the sorrow that I (and all our heighbors feel) in hearing of the and all our neighbors feel) in hearing of the

(and all our neighbors feel) in hearing of the terrible condition of that great, good, heroic man, your father.

It seems incomprehensible that in the youth of his fame and usefulness such a calamity should have come upon one of the few statesmen our country can now boast of. But I declare before God that I (for one) believe his magnificent heroism, his majestic patience, his Christian faith, under a torture which recalls the fabled sufferings of Prometheus must furnish an example that can

May I dare ask you to present these condo-lences to your father? We have never met and now can never meet on earth, but we shall know each other (D. V.) in another sphere. I am most truly yours, PACL H. HAYNE.

FROM DR. S. D. GROSS.

PHILADELPHIA, August 11, 1882.—My Dear
Senator: Your son's letter, dated August 3d, postmarked August 9th, and covering one from your own tremulous hand, was received a few hours ago, and I hasten to express to you my warmest sympathy and warmest per-sonal regard, esteem and affection. Your kind words, expressed in feeble crooked lines, drawn evidently at the expense of great ef-forts, have touched my very soul, and awak-ened feelings of the deepest regret that the science and the art of surgery are so impotent in such a disease as that under which you are so cruelly suffering. If the distance which separates us were not so great, and my presence here so indispensably necessary, I should pertainly visit you, and thus once more resume my professional relations. Surrounded as you are by a loving family and devoted friends, and attended by skilled physicians, you need no outside aid to assuage your pain, or to add to your comfort. If there is solace in sympathy when a man is overwhelmed with suffering, you have it in a degree in which few men ever had it before. Your resignation is sublime. During my entire at-tendance upon you no murmur of complaint or of impatience ever fell from your Your constant prayer was, 'God's w

DWYER GRAY IN PRISON.

IRISH JURIES CHARGED WITH

blic Demonstrations in Ireland in Consequence of the Acc of Judge Lawson-The Matter Taken Up in the House of Commons and Debat-ed by Gladstone and Irish Members.

DUBLIN, August 17.-It is stated that E. Dwyer Gray, who was sentenced to three months imprisonment yesterday, is in delicate health. The London Daily News says that if Judge Lawson had had the courage and prudence to dismiss Grev's case with a few words of contemptuous tolerance it would have been better for the ends of justice and the peace of Ireland. The other London papers approve the sentence. Gray was removed to prison yesterday in a carriage surrounded by hussars with drawn sabers. At the banquet given yesterday evening to celebrate the presentation of the freedom of the city to Parnell and Dillon there was a large attendance of guests. The toast to the queen was drank with considerable enthusiasm, intermixed with hisses from numbers of those present. Earl Spencer has ordered the release of fifty suspects who had been arrested in Loughrea district after the murder of Mr. Blake. A meeting at which Lord Mayor Dawson presided was held at the Mansion house to-day for the purpose of starting a fund for the assistance of the evicted tenants. Messrs. Parnell and Dillon were present. The attendance was arge. The lord mayor read a letter from Mr. Gray, dated in prison. He inclosed twenty pounds, and declared that their cause was that of justice and progress. The reading of the letter was received by cheers and shouts of "Down with Lawson. The police apprehend disturbance to-night, and great indignation prevails.

THE ARREST ANNOUNCED IN COMMONS

THE ARREST ANNOUNCED IN COMMON August 17.—In the house of commons this afternoon the speaker read a letter rom Judge Lawson announcing the committal of Mr. Gray. Mr. Gladstone noted that the from Judge Lawson announcing the committal of Mr. Gray. Mr. Gladstone noted that the precedents in cases similar to that of Mr. Gray show that the appointment of a commission is the proper course. At the present period of the session, is too late to secure the appointment of a representative commission. He did not more more way and way in which the not, moreover, know any way in which the commission could release Mr. Gray if they wished to do so. He, therefore, made a purely formal motion, that the letter of Judge Lawwhich recalls the fabled sufferings of Prometheus, must furnish an example that can never die, and in his death he shall be the means of calling many to the loftiest heights of perhaps of a long-forgot ten belief.

Even such consolations are feeble now to the "near and dear ones" called to witness a husband's and father's anguish.

The sympathics of Georgia the south the one of the principle alternative courses was received by loud cheers from the Irish members. Mr. Sexton attacked Judge Lawson for preventing Mr. Gray from making a defense. The proposal of Mr. Gladstone is simply a means to defer the matter until Mr. Gray's term has expired. Mr. Gray has telegraphed the speaker and Mr. Gladstone, informing them of his committal and the refusal of Judge Lawson to grant him an adjournment of his case. Mr. Sexton read a telegram reciting affidavits sworn to today, declaring that several of the jurymen who convicted Hynes were drunk and repeated the accusations of jury packing in Ireland. He said as long as the lives of the Irish people were at the mercy of legal chancery no minor reforms would satisfy them. Mr. Gray's imprisonment, he said, was a scandal and a disgrace to justice. Mr. Wm. Johnson, attorney general for Ireland, stated the details of the imposition of the juries with a view to rebut the accusations. He declared that nothing could be worse than Mr. Gray's conduct. Mr. Plunket, conservative member from Dublin university, supported the government. He considered that in consequence of Mr. Gray's high position it was right that his punishment should have been exemplary. The debate was continued till the suspension of the sitting, the Irish members repeating Mr. Sexton's accusations. At the resumption of the sitting, the Irish members repeating Mr. Sexton's accusations. At the resumption of the sitting this evening the debate relative to the sentence imposed on Mr. Gray was not resitting this evening the debate relative to the sentence imposed on Mr. Gray was not resumed owing to the total absence of the Irish members. Mr. Gladstone moved the adjournmembers. Mr. Gladstone moved the adjourn-ment of the house from to-morrow till the 24th of October, which was carried without division. The house was counted out at 9:20

THE SENTENCE CRITICISED London, August 17.—The Freeman's Jour-nal, of which Mr. Gray is proprietor, says:
"Mr. Gray's sentence is absolutely unparal-leled. He only received notice of the nature leled. He only received notice of the nature of the proceedings against him on Tuesday night, and was without any time to prepare his defense, which would probably have consisted of affidavits sustaining the truth of his published assertions. If his imprisonment tends, in any way, towards a reform of the legal abuses and the promotion of freedom of the press, he will cheerfully indorse it. Bombardment of Abouttr Imminent on Sunday ALEXANDEIA, August 17.—A dispatch from Alexandria to the Reuter telegram company ALEXANDRIA, August 17.—A dispatch from Alexandria to the Reuter telegram company states that General Wolseley has decided that the British advance shall be made from Aboukir. Troops will embark on Saturday, and will land and attack Aboukir forts on Sunday. The khedive to-day visited General Wolseley on board the dispatch boat Salamis, and remained an hour. The transports Egyptian, Monarch and Nevada, have arrived here. Reports continue to assert that a combined land and sea attack on the forts at Aboukir is imminent. According to the latest accounts the attack will be made on Sunday morning. The duke of Connaught will go on board the transport Orient without delay.

A dispatch to the standard from Alexandria confirms the statement that the troops will probably proceed to Aboukir Bay. The 3sth, 40th and 60th regiments are breaking up camp at Ramleh and preparing to embark. A dispatch from Alexandria to Reuters telegram company says the first division, with one regiment from the second division, will embark this afternoon after the bombardment of the forts at Aboukir, for which all the men-of-war but two will be withdrawn from Alexandria. Special Correspondence of The Constitution. ROME, August 17 .- Several days ago, there registered at the Sargeant house two persons, under the name of W. W. Brown and wife Huntsville, Ala. It was observed by Mr. Sargeant that the woman was always heavily veiled when in public, so that it was impossible to recognize her. day, Brown called on Printup Bros. & Co., bankers, and asked them if they would advance him $285 on a draft. They said they would if it was properly indorsed. He went out and soon returned with a draft indorsed ont and soon returned with a draft indorsed "Simpson & Ledbetter, per S." Feeling a little suspicious, Mr. Printup asked Brown to wait until he could send down to Messrs. Simpson & Ledbetter. This Brown refused to do, but said he would call again soon. Upon investigation it was discovered that the signature of Simpson & Ledbetter was a forgery. Just before this. Brown called at the First National bank and represented that he was a member of the firm of Condon & Bro., of Knoxville, and presented a letter of introduction from Mr. Joe H. Sargeant, of this city. He also presented a draft drawn by Condon & Bro. on the East Tennessee national bank of Knoxville and indorsed by W. T. McWilliams & Co., of this city. The cashier of the bank, not suspectindorsed by W. T. McWilliams & Co., of this city. The cashier of the bank, not suspecting anything wrong, let him have $284 on the draft. Shortly thereafter it was discovered thatthe signature of Mr.Sargeant to the letter of introduction, and of McWilliams & Co. to the draft were both forgeries, and several policemen were at once sent in search of Brown alias Condon. He was found secreted in a room of the Rome railroad depot, the $284 was found on his person, except thirty cents, and be was carried before Mayor Dailey who bound him over in a $2,000 bond for forgery. The woman regis-$2,000 bond for forgery. The woman registered as his wife proved to be a prostitute named Willie Hunt, who is well known here. She claims that she married Brown in Chattanooga about ten days ago. She was arrested and placed in jail on some old charges. Several trunks and valises supposed to contain valuables, were found in the room occupied by Brown and this woman. Brown, since his arrest, claims that his home is in Calera, Ala, and that he will be able to furnish head. Calera, Ala., and that he will be able to furnish bond. At present he is in jail, where it is likely he will remain. He is suspected of several other crimes. Mr. Sam W. THE BEST LUMBER MARKET.

Some Surprising Facts Claimed for Decatur-A Very Prosperous Town-Decatur Society.
Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

Decature, August 17.—A gentleman well pasted in the lumber business, having been engaged in it several years past, said to me a few days ago that he considered Decatur the best lumber market in the state. I thought the assertion at the time made was beyond justification, but the gentleman insisted that he believe it and cited the large number of mann the last few years, amounting in the aggregate to more than one hundred thousand dollars, and the number of buildings now in progress of erection as evidence of the truth of his statement. Believing it a subject worth investigation and of general interest, I went to the tax books to see what facts I could get from them on the subject. I found the town property in Decatur returned in 1867 at $42.573; 1870, $52.023; 1875, $85.905; 1889, $88,212; $18.1, $198,543; 1882, $146,415; and the increase from April I, 1861, to April I, 1882, $37,872. Several fine buildings erected since last April, amounting to more than $20,000, is not included in these statement. They will begin work soon, and intend increasing their facilities and donard the two property, is as great as that in Decatur. In 1867, the aggregate value. justification, but the gentleman insisted that he believe it, and cited the large number of houses built in and near the town within the last few years, amounting in the aggregate to more than one hundred thousand dollars, and the number of buildings now in progress of crection as evidence of the vorth investigation and the statement. Believing its content of the same age last Saturday night. The boy the same age last Saturday night. The boy then shot himself. It is thought both were accidental. Harper was placed in jail till Monday, when he was turned out. The feworth investigation are likely to the same age last Saturday night. The boy the same age l tur militia district, which does not include the town property, is as great as that in Deca-tur. In 1867 the aggregate value was $183,-940 and in 1882 $533,261. Showing an in-crease of $349,321 since 1857. The increase from April 1, 1881 to April 1, 1882 was $141, 822. There is not a town in the state sixty years old, with less than a thousand inhabiyears old, with less than a thousand inhabitants, and no pew railroad connection, can make a better showing in general progress and improvements than Decatur. Our town is out of 1ebt, has sufficient money in treasury to pay all expenses this year. Our streets and walks are in excellent condition. We have three flourishing white schools, and three neat and commodious houses of worship—Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist—each being supplied with a good paster. THEIR INSTITUTES IN NORTH AND SOUTH GEORGIA.

Towthe Work Has Been Carried on for the Past Three Weeks at Toccoa-What Has Been Accomplished-Hopes for the Puture-Who Speak-Subjec s of the Lectures.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. Toccoa, August 16.—The Toccoa normal institute is in its third normal week and its success is assured. There have been seventy five teachers in attendance, sixty-five white and ten black. All praise is due to our state school commissioner, Dr. Orr, for his earnest efforts to educate the teachers of the state. Seeing that the greatest need of the school system was skilled teachers, educated teachers, that the state could never rise to that position among her sister states which her natural resources demanded until her people were educated; and that this was im-possible without educated teachers, he asked the legislature of the state for sixteen hundred dollars to hold normal schools during the summer months. That venerable body decided that the state could not afford to spend its money for such a cause. Dr. Orr, not discouraged by receiving no assistance from the state, goes outside and finds people in the north who seem to be more in-terested in the welfare of the state than the legislature. He obtains from the trustees of legislature. He obtains from the trustees of the Peabody fund money sufficient to carry on three normal institutes one month. Although this time is very short, yet the state will be benefitted greatly by this month's work. Sne will have one hundred and seventy-five new and skilled teachers in the field. The instructors have worked faithfully. They give the best methods of teaching each branch. They are showing us how to teach our children to "live completely." The work is all very practical. The teachers are formed once more into a geography class, and draw again the map of Georgia and North America; into an English grammar class and study again the noun and sentence under Miss study again the noun and sentence under Miss Haygood; into an arithmetic class and study anew fractions and long-division under Professor Sanford; in o the class in physiology and elocution, and listen to lectures from Mrs.
Mallon; into a class in calisthenics and exercise of stiffening muscles. There is very little lecturing. All the work is practical and suggestive. We have learned that we know almost nothing about primary studies. In suggestive. We have learned that we know almost nothing about primary studies. In the evenings there are social meetings—experience meetings, if you please. They are very interesting and instructive. This week we will have lectures from Professor White, of Athens, and Professor R. W. Smith, of Dalton. Last evening we had a very logical and practical lecture from Colonel Sam Barnett on "The Art of Explanation." In the afteron "The Art of Explanation." In the after-noons we visit Toccoa falls, Currahee moun-tain and other places of note. Last Saturday a party made a visit to South Carolina. We all go to Tallulah falls Friday afternoon.
The Toccoa people have been very kind, giving us several entertainments, especially Mr. McAllister, whose house has been open at all times. Hotel accommodations are good. times. Hotel accommodations are good. Several county school commissioners from different parts of the state say that the teachers that come from the two colored normal schools in Atlanta do the best teaching that is done in their county. SOUTH GEORGIA TEACHERS.

Further Progress of the Teachers' Institute at Ameri-cus-The Speakers and Subjects. Special Correspondence of The Constitution. AMERICUS, August 16 .- The South Georgia teachers' institute still continues to increase in numbers and interest. Prominent among the instructors are: Dr. J. G. Orr, of Atlanta; Hon. J. H. Smart, of Indiana: Professor Mil-Hon. J. H. Smart, of Indiana; Professor Miller, of Macon, Georgia; School Commissioners Fleming of Newton, Ga.; Professor John Neely, Americus; Professor W. H. Baker and Professor J. M. Ganyou, of Savannah; Dr. Battle, of Macon, and Professor Benjamin T. Hunter, of Albany. There are about seventy pupils in attendance. Professor Willitt commenced a series of lectures last night on science, and will conclude on that subject to-night. Dr. Orr delivered a lecture this morning on "Public Schools." lecture this morning on "Public Schools," Mr Smart one on "The Manner of Con-lucting a School;" Professor Baker on "Sun-shine in the School-room," and Mr. Fleming shine in the school-room, and Mr. Freming followed on the same subject. Mr. Smart lectures to-morrow night. Subject, 'Over the Sea.' Lectures from other eminent instructors will consume the entire week. The institute is conceded to be a great success.

I notice an interview with Dr. J. A. Bright-well, copied into The Atlanta Constitution, which is likely to lead some innocent person into experimenting with water snakes to their injury. Being familiar with most snakes found in Coursia and their injury. Being familiar with most snakes found in Georgia, and constantly ex-perimenting with them, I agree with the doctor in most that he says, and having heard much of the deadly water moccasin, until the present season I had never found one; but recently a large one was brought me, somewhat resembling the common water snake, except that the markings are darker and broader and the body much thicker, the head, however, resembles the rattlesnake more and is very broad at base where it joins the neck. The fangs are very long and almost exactly resembles those of the large rattlesnake and are only distended when the jaws are open. I believe the doctor is mistaken about the spreading adder being is mistaken about the spreading adder being poisonous, unless he means the cotton-mouth, which I have never seen. The three varieties of fattlesnake, the water moccasin, sometimes called bull head, the mountain moccasin, called copperhead, in Pennsylvania, and the cotton-mouth, are the only reisonous, saskes ath, are the only poisonous snake believe. Matrimony in Stewart County Jail.

from the Lumpkin, Ga, Independent. Quite a rotantic marriage occurred at the jail a few days ago in which one of the prisoners, Tom Howers, played the principal part. It seems that a negro woman desired to call on Thomas, but Sheriff Griffis, being of a puritanical nature, would not allow anyone o visit the prisoners but relatives, ministers, or attorneys. The woman said she was not his wife but would marry him whereupon a license was bought, and at noon the woman again appeared, escorted by the Rev. Christopher Jordon, of the C. M. E. church. The doors were opened and the sheriff and jailer were chief mourners, while Tom and the bride smiled serenely. The ceremony was performed in the parson's unique style, after which he told Tom to "salute the bride." Tom made a gracefu gesture and low bow; but this did not satisfy the parson, who impartially said: "Oh, kiss your wife!" This just suited Tom, who im-mediately complied, while the audience, filled with emotion, wiped their tear-dimned eyes on their shirt sleeves.

SENDING A TELEGRAM.

An Inexperienced Traveler's Laborious Efforts t Telegraph to His Wife. From the Burlington, lowa, Hawk-Eye.

One man reached a long arm over the little crowd clustered at the operator's window and asked for a "blank telegraphic form," explaining that he "wished to send a telegraphic dispatch to his family." Now, when a man speaks of a "telegraphic dispatch," I always wake up and look at him, because the cum bersome title is all at utter variance with the spirit of the telegraph. It's too long. The use of it betrays the man who has little use for the telegraph. The more he uses the wire the shorter his terms. The more nearly he can come to saying "msg' the uses the wire the shorter his terms. The more nearly he can come to saying "msg" the more content he is. And he doesn't call it a "telegraphic form;" he asks for a "blank," black or red, as the case may be. And he never "telegraphs" anybody. He "wires" them. And he doesn't explain to the operator what he wants to do with the blank. Presumably he wants to write a message. And as for the matters referred to in that "msg," and the party for whom it is intended, the operator will know all that he wishes to know—and sometimes much more than you want operator will know all that he wishes to know—and sometimes much more than you want him to know—soon enough.

So I watched this passenger write his "telegraphic dispatch." First he asked the operator: "What day of the month is this?" There was nothing unusual in that. All men ask that. It is the opening line in the regular formula of sending a "msg." You may know what date it is before entering the office, you may even have it impressed upon your lar formula of sending a "msg." You may know what date it is before entering the office, you may even have it impressed upon your mind by having a note fall due on that day, but the moment you poise your pencil over the blank, that date flies from your mind like the toothache from a dentist's stairway. So when the man asked: "What day of the month is this?" I was not surprised. I courteously answered him, as a cover to approach his position, but he did not believe me. He repeated his question and made the operator answer. Then I knew he was very new at it. He spoiled three blanks before he got a "telegraphical dispatch" written to suit him. But even that is not very uncommon. A man always uses stationery more extravagantly in another man's office than he does at home. Then he wrote every word in the body of the dispatch very carefully and distinctly, but scrambled hurriedly over the address as though everybody knew that as well as he did, and dashed off his own signature in a blind letter style, as though his name was as familiar to the operator as it was to his own family. But even this is not uncommon. A man will write "Cunningham" so that no expert under the skies will tell whether it was Covington or Carrington, or Cummagen, or Carrenton, and when the op-erator points to it and asks: "What is this?" the writer will stare at him in blank amaze-

Well, my tall man with the thin neck got along a little better than that when he handed the operator the following explicit message:

Mrs. Sarah K. Follinsbee, Dallas Centre, Iowa—My Dear Wife: I left the city early this morning after cating breakfast with Professor Morton, a live msn in the temperance cause. I expected to eat dinner with you at home, but we were delayed by a terrible rail-good accident, and I parrowly escaped being

The operator read it, smiled and said: "You can save considerable expense and tell all that is really necessary, I presume, by shortening this message down to ten words. We have no wire directly into Dallas, and will have to send this message part of the way over another line, which adds largely to the cost of transmission. Shall I shorten this for you?" "No; Oh, no," the man with the shawl replied, "I'll fix, t myself. Ten words, you say?" "Yes, sir." It was a stunner, for a fact, and the man heaved a desired from the content of the cost of transmission. Shall I shorten this for you?" "No; Oh, no," the man with the shawl replied, "I'll fix, t myself. Ten words, you say?" "Yes, sir." It was a stunner, for a fact, and the man heaved a desired from the cruel effects, his back being dotted with glistening drops of blood. Not a groan, not a cry, not a sound of any kind escaped from Joseph Sayers while he was undergoing torture. On being untied, after it was over, he quietly dressed himself and walked back to his workshow the same sullen expression it did when he first found himself face to face with the triangle.

Containing all the essentials of a true tonic, and sure to give satisfaction, is Brown's Iron Bitters. you say?" "Yes, sir." It was a stunner, for a fact, and the man heaved a despiaring sigh as he prepared to boil his "letter" down to ten words. He sighed again after reading it through once or twice, and then scratched out "Dallas Cenor twice, and then scratched out "Dallas Centre, Iowa," as though everybody knew where, he lived. Then he erased "early" and drew his pen slowly through "breakfast wi, " and "in the temperance." Then he scratched over "dinner with" and went on to erase and "narrowly escaped." And so he went on through the dispatch. Occasionally he would hold it from him at arm's length after making an erasure, to get at the seneral effect. ing an ernsure, to get at the general effect.

And at last after much scratching and erasing and with many sighs, he came to the window and said, "Here is this telegraphic dispatch to my wife. I have not been able to condense to my wife. I have not been able to condense it into ten words, and do not see how it can be done without garbling the sense of the dispatch, but if you can do it, you would oblige me greatly, as I do not wish to incur any terrible railroad accident on the railroad. I—being killed—terrible mangled and since died; but I am—the conductor—I cannot come to Dailas Center,—but I can.—I hate—mother and the children. Your loving husband. Roora K. Folkinsher.

The operator smiled once more and in his quick, nervous way that grows out of his familiar association with the lightning, made a few quick dashes with his pencil and without adding or changing a letter in the original message, shrivled it, down to its yery smews, like this:

Sarah A. Follinsbee. Dallas Centre. Iowa:
Left city 'smorning; delayed by accident; all right; home 'sevening.
ROGER K. FOLLINSBEE.

ROBER K. FOLLINSBEE.

"There, that is all tight," he said in the cherry, magnetic way these operatives have.

"Fifty cents, sir; only twenty-five cents if we had our own wire into Dallas, sir; we'll have one next spring, too; saves you seven dollars, sir. That's right, thank you." And the man went and sat down on a chair by the stove and stared at that operator until the rescuing train came along, as though he were a worker of miracles. And when he got off the train at the junction for Dallas I heard him whispering softly to himself: "Shfollnsbee-clishn smorning; nothin smatter; home saftnoon." And I knew that he was practicing his lesso

Vauban's methods, however, were defective, his only object being to ascertain the population for purposes of taxation. During the eighteenth century the estimates of the population by different authorities varied greatly, ranging all the way from 16,000,000 to 26,000,000. The first regular census was taken in 1801, and an enumeration has been made at periods of five years ever since, except at the time of the Franco-Prussian war, when it was deferred till 1872. The following table gives the population at the dates indicated, the figures for the last century being those given by the best authorities; Year. "Why, that's my name!" "Well, yes, I know that," the operator will say; "but what is your name?" Then the man will gasp for breath and catch hold of the desk to keep himself from falling, and finally shout:

"Why, Cunningham, of course!!!" and look pityingly upon the operator, and then glance about the room with a pained, shocked expression, as one who should say, "Gentlemen, you may not believe it, and I do not blame you, but heaven is my witness—here is a man who does not know that my name is Cunningham!" This is not unusual. Any operotor will tell you that he has met Cunningham!" This is not unusual. Any operotor will tell you that he has met Cunningham of each im every time by asking his name.

The Chicago Tribune grows eloquent over numerous counties in Iowa gives a most encouraging report of the corn prospect. All Iowa needs for a great crop of corn is that frost shall hold off till September 20.' Some of the Kentucky papers desire to bring the pardoning power into the gubernatorial canvass. They want a governor for a change who will not strive to please the criminal class. When they are able to convict a felon-a comparatively rare occurrence-they do not want their work undone by pardons. The Louisville Post very properly says that the people have a right to know which of the candidates is likely to act in accordance with and which of them in opposition to their views on this point.

Tue national board of health have appealed to the attorney general against the decision of the secretary of the treasury in favor of the marine hospital service. The two bodies are contending for the power to disburse $100,000 set apart by congress to be used to keep down or put down yellow fever; and while they are contending the fever is gaining stronger and more alarming foothold in the gulf country. In Brownsville, at least citizens who pay their part of taxes are dying while two lots of officials are fighting out a

It is freely stated in about one thousand papers that William Pitt Kellogg proposes to engthen out his congressional service by representing in the lower house the third Louispomination, but at this writing Judge Taylor Beattie and Dr. Darrall, the present incumbent, each think they will control the convention. The convention is to be held on the 22d instant, and we will soon know whether the country is to be relieved of Kellogg or There is some chance that a democrat can be elected in the third district, because it begins to look as if the republicans would set up at least two candidates.

GENERAL GARTRELL is overbundened with nominations and indorsements. He is an independent candidate, so-called; he is the can party; he is the candidate of the custom to cap the climax of farcical politics, he has received the nomination of the liberals and greenbackers. This is the very distortion of burlesque. It is understood that General Gartrell will take the stump; but which stump will be take-the republican stump; the independent stump, the coalition stump the liberal stump the or greenback stump? This problem must be settled.

NATHANIEL J. HAMMOND.

When the Griffin convention presented Na thaniel J. Hammond for a third term in congress it expressed the almost unanimous wish of the democracy of this district. Few mer have succeeded so well in politics, without the common acts of the politician. Mr. Ham mond's first nomination for congress was sim ply a recognition of his character and ability His election to a second and his nomination for a third term give the assurance of satisfac tion with his career as a representative man

He went to Washington with the prestige of high and honorable service at home; and with the confidence of the people that in that untried arena he would ever be capable and true. It has often been remarked that no severer test can be imposed upon a public man than that he meets in the house of representatives. Many a bubble of reputati on has burst on that rough sea of politics. Many a politician has foisted himself into fame at home and gone there to sink into insignificance. But real merit and genuine strength will tell wherever they are placed. Mr. Hammond's success in congress, like his reputa tion at home, has been honestly won. He was soon recognized in the national council for his judgment, his character and his abil-

FARMS AND FARMING.

A state agriculture that has grown to such tionary or slight rise in barometer, slight an extent and with such rapidity as to show that the production of oats alone has increas ed from 1,904,601 bushels to 7,500,000 bushels the crop prospects in the northwest. The A correspondent who has traveled through rate of increase in live stock has been equally remarkable. The increase of horses was 20 per cent; mules, 51 per cent; oxen, 8 per cent; milk cows, 36 per cent other cattle, 32 per cent; sheep, 26 per cent swine, 49 per cent. The census of 1880 shows 98,520 horses, 132,078 mules, 50,026 oxen, 315, 073 milk cows. 544.812 other cattle, 1,471,003 swine and 527,589 sheep.

A remakable evidence of progress is the greater number of farms in the state, showing the increase of individual proprietorship. In 1850 Georgia had 51,759 farms: in 1860, 62,003 in 1870, 69,956, and in 1880 the number had jumped to 138,626, being 98 per cent increase. Of these . 76,451 run by the owners, 18,557 rented for money, and 43,618 rented on shares. In size, 3,491 of the farms are over 1.000 acres: 7.017 over .500 acres: 53,365 over 100 acres; 26,054 over 50 acres; 36,054 over 20 acres: 8,694 over 10 acres: 3,110 over 3 acres, and 101 under 3 acres. The largest proportion of farms are between 100 and 500 acres, and the next largest number between 20 and 50 acres. It is quite remarkable that there should be 53,635 farms between 100 and 500 acres, and 36,524 between 50 and 100 acres. Of renters the largest number rent farms of 20 to 50 acres. It is a striking fact, however, that 237 renters hire farms of over 1.000 acres each: 625 rent over 500 acres each 10.130 renters hire between 100 and 500 acres each. This is large renting.

Two most encouraging facts are observable that testify practically to the enhancing pros iana district. He may be able to secure a perity and enlarging wisdom of our farming population; and they are and have been the constant teaching our agricultural department. These two facts are the immensely larger yield of provision crops and the subdivision of our land into smaller and more numerous proprietary farms. These facts demonstrate that our ag riculture is becoming self-sustaining, while the growth of individual proprietorship gives stability to our state government through the enhanced responsibility of its citizens.

There are many valuable statistics and facts we cannot touch upon. The increase of truck candidate of the capitol wing of the republimanufacture of improved farm implements have all been helped by the agricultural de partment. Every interest directly or remotely onnected with agriculture has been fostered and no man can measure the benefits that the state will reap from this department continued on the same line.

A LITERARY SENSATION.

The announcement by Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, that they will pub lish in the fall a new novel by Nathaniel Hawthorne, has created a great sensation in literary circles. In point of fact, few im portant literary announcements than the discovery of a new manuscript novel by Haw thorne could possibly be made, and the interest manifested is natural enough. The publishers state, or leave it to be inferred, that the reason this work has been overlooked is due to the fact that the great romancer wrote badly, and most of his manuscripts were undecipherable. It is further left to be inferred that Julian Hawthorne discovered it in an old chest of papers that followed the family to Europe, and that he has for some time been engaged in unraveling it. The statement has already been printed among the literary notes of the newspapers, but such an important announcement could not be allowed to rest, and there are signs that the discussion in this case will not only be fierce, but that it will bring to light a sort of family feud existing between the Haw thorne children and their connexions.

A few years ago, Mr. George Parsons Lathrop, one of the most promising of the new generation of literary men, wrote and published a critical study of Hawthorne's life and works. His qualification for this work consisted partly in the fact that he was intimately connected with the Hawthornes by marriage. The sketch, or the book, however, excited the ire of his brother-in-law, Mr. Julian Hawthorne, and the latter in a letter to the New York Tribune made a very coarse attack upon his brother-in-law, Mr. Lathrop The Lathrops took no notice of this attack. and possibly it has not influenced them in the notice which they have taken of the announcement of the discovery of a new romance by Hawthorne.

Mrs. Rose Hawthorne Lathrop writes a note to the Boston Advertiser contradicting the statement that a new and complete romance from the pen of her father has been found among his papers. She says that a fragmentary and unfinished sketch by her father introduces two of the characters and gives a vague that the committee was compelled to ask a there were few of them, nothing was over-> cal and internal disagreement, and one branch went away to what is now the United States of North America. Several generations afterward, a young man from the American branch came to England to recover his proportion of the ancestral tlomain. Now, Dr. Grimshawe had been harshly treated by his former patrons, and bore them a grudge. He was willing to help the young American, and so he did assist him to secure his inherited rights. But there is another side to the story. The American did as his fathers did before him, and fell in love. It was a young English woman who captivated him, and Dr. Grimshawe was his friend in this matter also. Now, what are we to understand from these conflicting statements and announcementsone from Julian Hawthorne and his publishers and the other from the Lathrops? If "Dr. Grimshawe's Secret" should turn out to be a completed romance, are we to infer that it has been doctored by Julian Hawthorne, who is a writer of considerable power? Or, are we to infer that the examination made by the Lathrops was not as complete as it might be? In any event, all the symptoms go to show that a very curious literary controversy is brewing. THE SENEYSYNDICATE WILL NOT SELL BACK THE STOCK.

The Only Proposition Pending is One to Consolid Certain Interests of the Memphis and Charles-ton With Colonel Colyar's Coal and Iron Company—The Preliminaries.

NEW YORK, August 17 .- No such proposition has been made to the Memphis and Charleston stockholders as published some days ago. The only proposition ever made by this company was with reference to the consolidation of the properties.

L. M. SCHWAN, Secretary E. T. Va., & Ga. R. R. THE FACTS OF THE CASE.

From the Nashville American, 17th. We have learned from Mr. Colvar, who has returned from New York, the following facts, in substance, in reference to his trip. They are of such general interest, not only to the stockholders of the Alabama and Tennessee coal and iron company, of which he is president, and in whose interest the trip was made, but also to the public generally, that we have obtained his consent to their publication: The object of the company is to reach its immense coal field in Alabama, known as the Black Warrior coal field, and then, if possible, connect by a coal and iron railroad this coal with the ore beds in Tennessee lying in Hickman, Lawrence, Wayne and other counties. Mr. Colyar found the main difficulty in the way to be the threatened litigation between the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company (or Seney syndicate), which has a lease of the Memphis and Charleston road, and the stockholders in the latter. Upon looking into the question presented, of connecting by branches from but also to the public generally, that we have igation between the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company (or Seney syndicate), which has a lease of the Memphis and Charlesten road, and the stockholders in the latter. Upon looking into the question presented, of connecting by branches from the main line, both the coal and the iron, and the magnitude of it, as a part of the system, all parties in interest agreed it must be the company of the system. the latter. Upon looking into the question presented, of connecting by branches from the main line, both the coal and the iron, and the magnitude of it, as a part of the system, all parties in interest agreed it must be done, and that it was the interest of all parties to compromise the litigation. This will probably be done in a few days at the stockholders' meeting at Huntsville, General Thomas, the head of the Seney syndicate, having submitted a new proposition which nearly all the stockholders in New York seemed pleased with. Mr. C. says, however, it may be uncertain about the Memphis syndicate, having submitted a new proposi-tion which nearly all the stockholders in New York seemed pleased with. Mr. C. says, how-ever, it may be uncertain about the Memphis York seemed pleased with. Mr. C. says, however, it may be uncertain about the Memphis and Charleston people being allowed to build the road desired, as the Gordons have a charter and have been for a year, or more working up a scheme to build this road, connecting the coal and iron and crossing the river at Florence. General Gordon is now in Europe for the purpose of selling the bonds and stock of a construction company, organized to build one hundred miles of road, connecting this coal and iron recently collected was forwarded to General Gordon from New York after Mr. C. reached there, and on last Friday he succeeded in selling in London the bonds and stock of the constructing company. Mr. Colyar saw the telegram to his up a scheme to build this road, connecting the coal and iron and crossing the river at Florence. General Gordon is now in Europe for the purpose of selling the bonds and stock of a construction company, organized to build one hundred miles of road, connecting this coal and iron by a railroad. All the information about this coal and iron recently collected was forwarded to General Gordon from New York after Mr. C. reached there, and on last Friday he succeeded in selling in London last Friday he succeeded in selling in London the bonds and stock of the constructing com-pany. Mr. Colyar saw the telegram to his brother, Major E. C. Gordon, on Saturday. WHEN THE WORK WILL BEGIN.

T e work will be commenced in a slort time, and doubtless in such a way as to be satisfactory to the Memphis and Charleston people. That this road will now be built there can be no doubt, and Mr. Colyar is of opinion that the road from Corinth to Birmingham will also be built, and which passes through the middle of the coal field lately purchased. the middle of the coal field lately purchased by the Alabama & Tennesse coal and iron company. Mr Colyar caused a map to be made in New York showing the coal lands of Alabama and the iron lands of Tennessee, Alabama and the iron lands of Tennessee, with the roads in operation, as well as the projected roads, and which he says favorably impressed capitalists, many of whom are willing to put money into these lands, and, if necessary, furnish all the capital needed to build a road to them. Land in Tennessee and Alabama, easy of access by railroad, and with a navigable river running between them, at a few dollars nor acce, which in Pennsylat a few dollars per acre, which in Pennsylvania would be worth as many hundreds, strikes the wide-awake money making New Yorker, or even the slow and steady going Botonian, as an inviting field for investment. We have hammered into the heads of Botonian, as an inviting field for investment. We have hammered into the heads of many eastern people what at first they were slow to believe, that we have in the south a good coking coal, and that we are actually making iron from five to seven dollars per ton cheaper than they can make it in Pittsburg, and these facts are making an impression on the wide-awake men in all parts of the north and east. Mr. Colyar says if we can be freed from the perplexities of our. parts of the north and east. Art. Colyar says if we can be freed from the perplexities of our state finances, in his opinion the next ten years will develop our coal and from interests to such an extent that the most sanguine man will be astonished at the result. man will be astonished at the result. There is now no difficulty in inducing capital to take hold of southern enterprises which look to manufacturing on a solid basis, or to develop our coal fields. The people in the north are waking up especially to our iron interests, and the vast bodies of iron ore are passing into the hands of concentrated capital much more rapidly than anybody supposes who has not kept up with it.

An agent of one of the Baltimore lines said the meinbers of the rate committee would not tell what had been decided upon, because the facts being known in advance of the execution of the programme would affect transportation in known in advance of the execution of the programme would affect transportation in the meantime. The pool commissioner will issue the rate-sheet when it is arranged, and the new schedule will go into effect September 1. have revived the periodical rumor that the Richmond and Danville rairoad is about to be absorbed by the Baltimore and Ohio. A Richmond correspondent of the Norfolk Ledger says every few months during the past ten years this story has gotton out. What is the foundation for it he has failed to discover. A North Carolina newspaper "caps the climax" in giving the rumor by adding that the brother of Mr. John W. Garrett is named in connection with the presidency.

The views of the controlling party in the Memphis and Charleston railroad have undergone a change. It was less than a month ago n they were satisfied that the lease to the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia could not be broken, and that it would be best to accept the offer for the merger made by the latter road. Now it is understood that they latter road. Now it is understood that they have been converted to the views of the minority and they have consented to an arrangement by which they are to pay $400,000 to the lessee company and receive their road back again. There is no doubt but the company can earn a dividend if managed independently, but eight per cent on the entire capital stock is a pretty good price to pay for a release, even though the property be a good one. The acceptance of the proposal is a most decided reflection upon the management of the East Tennessee, for the lease of the road provided that its entire net earnings should be paid over to the company in lieu of dividends,

The meeting is set down for Huntsville, Alabama, on the 22d of this month, and the chances are in favor of the adoption of this proposition.

RAILROAD BUILDING IN THE SOUTH. From the New York Herald.

In sailroad building and railroad business In failroad building and railroad business last year was unprecedented in the southern states. About fitteen hundred miles of road were put in operation, which is nearly a thousand more than were built during the preceding year. The gross earning of southern railroads last year reache $83,000,000. In 1880 they amounted to $48,000,000, and in 1879 to $43,000,000 in 1879 to $18,000,000 in 1880, and more than $24,000,000 in 1881. Yesterday, they robbed Overton's country store and withen set it on fire and rode away. The buildn set it on fire and rode away. The buildthen set it on fire and rode away. The building was destroyed. About midnight they arrived at the farm house of J. Newhall, routed him out of bed, and made him give them a bottle of whisky. Then they concluded they would ravish Newhall's daughter, a young woman nineteen years old, whereupon the old man went into the house and immediately reappeared with a double-barreled shot gun opened fire on the desperadoes, wounded one of them and killed one of their horses. They then stole one of Newhall's horses and placing their wounded companion upon it rode away. A strong posse of citizens is in pursuit of the gang. In the melee at Newhall's the old man was wounded in the leg severely.

BANKERS' ASSOCIATION MEETING

ATSARATOGA. Number of Bankers From Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas Portrey in Glowing Colors the Fine Prospects of Crops and They Ask for an Inflow of Northern Capital,

SARATOGA, N. Y., August 17 .- At this morning's session of the bankers' association Mr. Henry, of Mobile, gave a brief account of the crop prospects in the southern states, which he said were good. The planters of Alabama are getting rid of their incubus of debt. The mineral wealth of the state is great and only needs capital to develop it. Mr. W. H. Perkins, cashier of the Capitol state bank of Jackson, Mississippi, read a paper on the industrial growth of Mississippi and the cotton states. He said Mississippi is rapidly developing and her resources are opening up under the new era of progress. Railroad enterprises are being prosecuted which will cause an expenditure in state of fifteen to thirty million dollars within the next three or four years. What is most needed is capital to be employed in developing and aiding manufactories of cotton and wool, and machinery in bringing to the surface the vast wealth in the marl beds, and enabling planters to get out of debt. Logan H. Root, president of the merchants bank, Little Rock, Ark., gave a glowing account of the progress and present prosperous condition of business in that state. Mr. Nelson, of Seima, Alabama, made a brief presentation of the business prospects in Alabama, first sketching the condition of things at the end of the war when only land and debts were left. He said everything now looked favorable and asserted that the south was the most prosperous country in the world. He eulogized Thomas A. Scott, of Pennsylvania, who opened railroads there, and said that at the present time the rairoads in Alabama, cannot move the freight that is offering.

The executive council presented a resolution, which was adopted, in relation to the amount of notes authorized to be issued on bonds deposited under recent amendments to the nationat banking law. THE GARLAND TRIAL.

Large Attendance of Spectators-The Jury to Be Taken Out to View the Spot.

LUNNENBERG, Va., August 17.—The trial of

dison attracted another large crowd to-day. Judge Hinton, representing the prosecution, asked that sometime during the trial cution, asked that sometime during the trial the jury be taken to the spot where the tragedy occurred, that they might see the place and its surroundings. The court asked the jury if they desired to do so. They said that nothing could be gained by it. John Eaves, witness for the prosecution, was recalled, and testified that he went with Addison to meet Garland as a friend of the former. The witness never saw Garland more than three times before the difficulty. Addison to most known the witness was armed when son did not know the witness was arried when he went with him. The witness then gave some details of the duel. The counsel for de-fense wanted to show by the commonwealth's witness that he (the witness) aided the employment of counsel to prosecute Garland, in order to show the animus of the witness. The ourt, at the request of counsel for the prose-ution, refused to allow the witness to answer the question.

The Defense entered upon.

The examination of witnesses for the defense was then commenced. The first witness examined was W. W. Boswell, brother-in-law of Garland and postmaster at Wattsboro law of Garland and postmaster who festified post-office, Lunenburg county, who testified to the receipt of Miss Hatchett's and Addi-son's letters by Garland, and Garland's reply to Miss Hatchett and Addison; of witness visiting Wedderburn's mill on July 19th, and telling Addison that Garland was up the road awaiting to see him; also to witness intro-ducing Garland and Addison and the duel which followed. Boswell testified that Addison fired the first and the last shot; that he, (witness), Garland and Reach were all armed on the day of the duel, and met at Boswell's store. Two other witnesses, whose testimony was immaterial, were examined for the de-fense. The court adjourned until to-morrow. The trial is progressing very slowly, and it is thought will not be concluded until Saturday.

Tuesday and Wednesday it listened to the news presented by the mem-bers of three delegations which are in at bers of three delegations which are in attendance. One of these delegations appears in the interest of the Louisiana levees; another for the Mississippi levees, and a third for the city of Vicksburg. Senator Lamar, of Mississippi, who is one of the delegates, spoke in favor of the Mississippi's interests in general, and Vicksburg's interest in particular; Judge Steele, formerly of New Orleans, but now of Natchez, Miss., spoke in behalf of Louisiana levees, and endeavored to impress on the commission that destructive floods. to on the commission that destructive floods, to which the banks of the Mississippi are subjected, are caused by the accumulation of waters in what are known as the Yazoo and Tensas bottoms, from the mouth of the Red river to the mouth of the Arkansas, and that it is within these points, also, that the greatest difficulties of navigation are to be found. He urged, therefore that the levees along this portion of the river should be closed first. Colonel Percy, of Mis-sissippi, and Major Waddell, of Vicksburg, spoke to the same effect. THE MEMPHIS AND NEW ORLEANS RAILROAD SCHEME.

A Sudden Death. From the Lumpkin, Ga., Independent.

On Thursday night last Mr. Dan W. McLeser, of Green Hill district,, in this county, died after a very brief illness. He was taken on Monday afternoon last with a violent pain in the head. Physicians were summoned to his bedside, but he rapidly grew worse, and died at ten o clock Thursday night last. We but he is gone—blucked from the bosom of his youthful and devoted wife, and from the care of his helpless babe, and hurried into the shades of the grave.

Folly Shots.

A friend consoled a defeated litigant by saying:

I went to law once, need and will be saying: 'I went to law office my-elf and will never go again. I kepta bill and sued a neighbor for exciting the animal by hanging out red flannel underskirts on the the clothesline to dry."
"I see, "said the littigant, pleasantly, "both you and the bull were non-suited."

A man who had been carried to a Philadelphia hopkial while suffering from the effects of a severe contusion was asked if he had been treated kindly while there.

while there.

"Considering all things," he answered, "I think I have no right to complain. They amputated both of my feet, removed my collarbone, cut off my right arm, trepanned me, took out a piece of the under jaw, sawed my left hipbone in two, and were about to excavate five or six ribs, when a fire broke out in the establishment and the police got away with the rest of my body in safety."

"I met Mr. Miggles to-day," remarked Mrs. Chip-plek. "He's quite a changed man. I hardly knew him, he's ochipper and lively." "Indeed," responded her husband gravely. "How very strange! I read in the paper that his wife sailed for Europe last week."

A New Judge.

Colonel J. D. Alexander, editor of the Thomaston Times, was in the city yesterday, and during the day visited the executive office, where he received, from the hands of Governor Colquitt, his commission as Judge of the county court of Upson county. Judge Alexander, as he will now be called, succeeds Mr. Sandwich, who has recently resigned the trust.

Charged With Forgery.

S. W. Brown, a colored voter of the first ward, was yesterday morning calaboosed by Captain Crim and Officers Russell and Bone, upon the charge of forgery. It appears that Brown night before last presented an order to a Mr. Starnes, who does business on Foundry streets purporting to be signed by the proprietor of a flouring mill on the Western and Atlantic railroad, upon which he secured some goods. The order was bogus, hence Brown's arrest.

Are They Guilty.

Are They Guilty.

Early yesterday morning Officer Holland was detailed to investigate the burglary which occurred at the Leyden house on Peachtree street, night before last. Soon after beginning work, the officer ascertained certain facts which induced him to believe that some of the house servants were the guilty parties. Acting upon this belief he soon succeeded in arresting Henry Turner, Walter Turner and Mollie Mitchell. The first named Turner quickly cleared himself of any complicity in the affair and was released. The other Turner and kis female associate were less fortunate and are now in the calaboose where their nany conflicting stories will keep them until the guilty ones are detected. None of the stolen property has yet been recovered, of the stolen properly has yet been recovered, although Officer Holland believes he will find it within the next twenty four hours.

The Anniversary Exercises Postponed Father Ryan's Lecture-General Loring.

The anniversary exercises of the Young Men's library association, which were to have taken place to-morrow night at DeGive's opera house have been postponed until one night next week, probably Monday night. The postponement is caused by the funeral of Senator Hill, which takes place on the afternoon of the evening chosen on the afternoon of the evening chosen or the exercises.

The library's excursion to Indian Spring is growing every day, and it is now the the vast crowd that contemplate going. The fare has been reduced to one dollar for the round trip.

Mr. Snook, chairman of the announcement committee, has just received a letter from Father Ryan, at Biloxi, Mississippi, in which he expresses a willingness to come to Atlanta and lecture for the library. Father Ryan asks for the appointment of a date and gives his figures which are so reasonable that the committee has decided to close the contract.

General Loring is in the city, and the lecture committee will have an address by him one evening next week.

It is highly probable that Jefferson Davis will be in the city this week to attend the funeral of Senator Hill, and should be come the committee will use every persuasion to induce him to remain and lecture during the entered the editorial room and with a pleasant smile asked:

"Where's your city editor?"

"He's on —hasn't come to work yet," replied the schange editor, as he glanced up at the pleasant, childish face before him.

"Well, where's the editor-in-chief?"

"Out of town," was the editor's response as his eyes lighted upon a book in the little lady's hand.

"Then who is in charge of the office. I am and caused the paragrapher to drop his pencil and face the fair speaker, who cast a bewitch-"And you want another subscriber, I guess," remarked the editor, as he took a copy of The Hurricane from the young lady.

"No, not from you, but I want a notice, a good one, a nice one, one that will be read and will introduce me to when I go to see them."

"Then you are going to canvass the town?"

"I am going to get lots of subscribers here.

I have been all over the north and east and have succeeded everywhere. My paper is only fifty cents a year, but its good as well as cheap. I am fifteen years old and do all the work myself. I am not large. work myself. I am not large, neither is my paper, but precious things in small packages, you know."

Chief Connolly Talks About the Bepurtment and Tells of the Work for the Month of August.

"Oh, yes, the police force is in as fine a condition as I ever knew it to be," remarked Chief Connolly to a Constitution reporter yesterday. "I have just completed my examinations of my four ceptains' monthly reports, and I find there is no mention of neglect of duty among forty regular patrolmen and fourteen supernumeraries."

"Was there much work in your department during the past month?"

"Yes, a good deal. Decidedly more than for the previous month. For the month of July there were four hundred and ninetynine cases entered at the station house, while for the month of August there were five nine cases entered at the station house, while for the month of August there were five hundred and twenty-two. Of the arrests in July, seventy-six were for violations of state laws and four hundred and twenty-three for violations of city laws, while in August seventy-eight were state offenses and four hundred and forty-four city offenses."

"What became of these five hundred and twenty-two cases made this month?"

"Oh, these were disposed of in various ways:

"Oh, these were disposed of in various ways: fity-seven of the state cases were prosecuted and twenty-one were released. Of the city cases three hundred and thirty-five were fined, one hundred and two were dismissed and

Professor Bizien in Charge.

Major Slaton, superintendent of public instruction for the city of Atlanta, left yesterday afternoon for Prattville, Ala., to attend the burial of his mother. During his absence Professor Bizien, 'principal of the Walker street school, will occupy Major Slaton's chair in the office of public instruction, and will attend to the major's duties.

Badly Hurt.

Yesterday Lewis Alexander, a negro man, who lives near the Bonlevard, came up town and got gloriously drunk. He then returned home, and finding hothing else upon which to feast his beligherant proclivities, fell upon his wife with a heavy club and came near killing her. In fact, so badly is his wife hurt that her death is not uncertain. Alexander is still at large.

Cases three hundred and thirty-five were fined, one hundred and two were dismissed and seven were continued."

"The amount of fines —"

"Derived from the three hundred and thirty-five cases was $1,943 even, but only $1,218.25 of this sum was collected, a $210.30 was remitted by the mayor and $022.45 was worked and is being worked out on the streets. The amount of money collected by me from various sources during the month was $1,290.30.

Of this sum $1,218.25 was on account of fines imposed by the recorder, while the balance, $720.05, was on account of station house fees and impounded stock."

"Yes, as smooth as I could wish it. The city is clean and the sanitary inspectors are doing everything to keep it clean. The stockade is in good condition, and Superintendent Emmel is now working fifty convicts. The station house, though the sanitary inspectors are doing everything small and insecure, is clean and healthy. Officer Haynes, at Ponce de Leon, and Officer Flynn, at the water shed, are doing their duty faithfully, and I am satisfied."

C. M. GOODMAN. liberal patronage.

ATLANTA, GA., Augutt 17, 1882. By reference to Mr. Goodman's card, it will be seen that we have purchased his stock of mould-ings, frames, etc. We will continue the picture framing business at his old stand, No. 28 Whitehall, and with the elegant assortment of neuldings, gold and velvet frames, engravings, hromos, etc , that we will have in a short time, we ope to have anything that our customers may

We will still continue the book and stationery store, No. 13 Peachtree street. Hoping that we will receive the same encouragement in the future that we have in the past, we are, very respectfully, aug183t LOVEJOY & PIICHFORD.

In our issue of Sunday last we published a brief account of the pres. ntation of a handsome desk to Mr. G. W. Leonard. The desk was "presented by the employes of the Singer manufacturing company in Georgia, south Carolina and Florida." and a neat letter, signed by a large number of his late coworkers and addressed to him, was also published. We have since seen the desk which is from the manufactory of the celebrated Woolson Desk company, and of the style known as No. 10 rotary, extra finish. It is the finest piece of furniture in the way of an office desk ever brought to Atlanta, and for elegance and convenience excels anything we have ever seen in that line. While the floor space it occupies is small, the arrangement is such that there is abundant room for filing papers, blanks, books, stationery, etc., etc. We learn from Mr. Miller that those who have seen it are delighted with it, and he will probably take several orders for desks of this manufacture.

In another column we publish Mr. Leonard's letter of acknowledgement. Few men have gained such wide-spread and general popularity in so short a time, and his departure will be a source of general regret, especially in Atlanta, where he has been well known and recognized as one of our most intimately connected with him, and wish him the full measure of prosperity which his many excellent qualities of heart so richly merit.

ATEANTA, Ga., August 17th, 1882.

To the Employes of the Singer Manufacturing Company in Georgia, South Carolina and Florida: Your letter of 12th inst., accompanied by an elegant office deek and chair, was p esented to me on Sat urday. Words are inadequate to express my appreciation of your beautiful and useful git. Coming so long after the severance of my connection with the company, it serves to show that the feeling of regard which you have so often expressed for me is not an evanseent one.

It is a matter of much regret to me that my business interests require me to leave the many friends and aequaintances I have made here and throughout the territory I have controlled. I have much cause to love the southern people. Coming among them a perfect stranger, I have received the most cordial and kindly treatment from all classes. The recollection of my ten year's residence among them will always be a pleasant memory.

I shall take with me, wherever I may go, this priceless token of your good will at parting, and in return best to express my grateful appreciation of your confidence and e-teem, and my carnest wish that prosperity and happiness may ever attend each of you. Very sincerely your friend,

G. W. LEONARD.

C. W. Motes, the photographer, has returned home from the annual meeting of the Photographers' association of America, which metat Indianapolis last week, with new ideas, new backgrounds and accessions, and is prepared to give his patrons the benefit of all late improvements in his art. He is making a specialty of instantaneous photography by which children are photographed in his studio in less than one second.

Important Notice.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Library association have concluded to only charge one dollar for round trip to Indian Spring. Half price for children. This will place it within the reach of every member of the association. Arrangements will be made to accommodate one thousand. Let everybody go, take the children, enjoy a day in the country and help the library.

We understand that a petition is being circulated requesting Major J. H. Ketner to represent the second ward in the next city election. The petition is being signed by good and substantial citizens, and it is almost certain that Major Ketner will consent to run. He will make a good representative for his ward.

Members of the above organization will find a notice in another column, ordering them out to attend the funeral of United States Senator Benjanin H. Hill.

The opera house will be opened this season by the talent of Atl nta. The Amaraath club will produce a new and brilliant drama, in connection with the "Broom Drill," next Wednesday night, entitled "Our Nelly." This is, the best entertainment, by amateurs, that the people of Atlanta have been treated to in many years.

The "Broom Drill," by the young ladies, is the finest sight one could wish to view. Don't neglect to see it.

THE MODERN WOMAN.

er Faults, Folbles, and Good Trults.

We are often inflicted with the introduction of the topic of the modern woman whose chief burden and refrain long drawn out, is a depreciation of her attainments. Her so chief burden and refrain long drawn out, is a depreciation of her attainments. Her so called follies are held up to the merciless case of the listener. 'She is described as a soulless, senseless creature, and is caricatured for her love of dress, her affectation of art, her shopping propensities, and a thousand other faults and foibles, which too often receive the smiles of the gullible, while one rarely takes the truble to express disapprobation of the unjust photograph so ostentatiously handed around as "the only true and original."

How this world is given to—romancing—is

How this world is given to—romancing—is clearly ascertainable by examining the hack-neyed lists of her inefficiencies which are bandied about from mouth to mouth with bandled about from mouth to mouth with persistent ascerbity as the clouds of dust are driven on a hot, dry summer day. Her waste of time has been the theme of many a pen that might have been better engaged in fol-lowing her illustrious example of doing noth-Penchtree All Right.

Mr. D. Tye has purchased the meat market for acrly owned and occupied by Messrs. A. A. Shields of the readers of This Constitutions who reside in the readers of the readers she will tell him more on her return than he had the wit to discover. In these apparent wasted hours "shopping through the windows" and observing the costumes of the dows" and observing the costumes of the passers-by, she carries home in that silly cranium of hers a knowledge that saves the head of the family at least $20.

"Her love of dress"—an indication often awakening of the heart, a thanksgiving to God and nature for their endowments and the surest token of the full appreciation of their gift, by making of it all they possibly can, is a trait of character essentially and almost exclusively feminine. To appear tastefully adorned does not require a plethoric purse, or never to be cancelled drygoods account, when lawn can be had at Brotherton's at fifteen cents and less per yard, and worsied correspondingly cheap. per yard, and worsted correspondingly cheap. Indeed to appear poorly or unbecomingly clad is a greivous falling short of duty.

No matter by what intellectual route we propose to travel in order to solve the bread and butter problem, we doubt if the average financier could show a neater stroke of economy than the modern woman does when she only than the modern woman does when she visits the vast dry goods emporium on the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell street, and by a master stroke of policy invests her money in beautiful fabrics at prices which are fabulously below the general prices which are fabulously below the general market, for are not 1,500 pennies saved the same number earned.

When the matronly type of the modern woman has just returned from one of these excursions, life to her is a voyage calm as the peaceful current of the gulf stream. Her face is restful; her children respectful and obedient; her husband successful and honored among men, and all is due to the keen and practical sirewdness which she has displayed with the heroic generalship of a Nepoleon and the dignity of a queen.

played with the heroic generalship of a Nepoleon and the dignity of a queen.

Let her example be followed by all who read this article and none will be accused of a lack of appreciation. If it is your ambition to appear neatly clad, to display your "love of dress," remember that prints can be had at Brotherton's from five to ten cents per yard. That, it your efforts are to make your home more beautiful and attractive, you can find at the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, an immense line of articles to be purchased for a more figment that will adorn it with a cunning definess that can't be excelled.
